Market Commentary

The recovery has faded over the last three months and investors now ask if the reflation (above trend growth and above target inflation) trade is over? We don't believe so, but acknowledge that the pace of the recovery has slowed. Equities and commodities have further upside, but the path maybe more volatile. Near term uncertainty around China's growth slowdown, the Delta variant, Fed policy and inflation will weigh on markets.

Economic activity amongst developed markets remains strong, despite a moderate softening. Services sectors in the US and Europe have re-opened due to vaccinations and further re-opening will likely slowdown. Recent consumption data indicates that US household spending is running at a steady pace as pent-up savings are put to work. The recent rise of new Delta variant cases in the US and China is an emerging risk. Despite lower hospitalisation rates in countries with high vaccination rates, authorities may ultimately choose to increase restriction of movement. China has delivered a surprised Reserve Requirement Ratio cut earlier in the month, signalling that the credit tightening cycle might be nearing its end. With the consumer outlook weakening, the need to accelerate local government bond issues has become more urgent.

In SA unrest and protest action in Gauteng and KwaZulu Natal has claimed the livelihoods of many. P property damages of more than R20bn and GDP loss of around 0.5% are expected. The Ministers of Security, Defence and Police have come under pressure due to the lack of effective early response. President Cyril Ramaphosa, used a cabinet reshuffle to re-organise his security cluster, but also replaced the Minister of Finance, Tito Mboweni who resigned. Enoch Godongwana was elected as new Finance Minister. We believe the fiscal goals will remain largely intact under his leadership and believe National Treasury while benefit as an institution from his leadership.

Equities had a mixed month. Global equities were up 1.7%, led by Healthcare & Mining while Energy stocks were the biggest under performer. US and European stocks outperformed the rest of the world. Emerging markets were hit hard by Chinese regulator actions. EM was down -7%, while China was down -14%. SA equities were up 2.5% as the mining companies rallied hard. Commodities were mixed. Base metals, copper, gold and oil were all up while Iron ore, lumber, corn, platinum were down. In South Africa, the government bond yield curve steepened as the SARB took a more dovish stance than anticipated by the market, pushing out the start date of policy normalisation. The ALBI returned 0.8%. The Rand lost -2.2% over the month.
